CURRENT COMMENT

That man must be in a bad way indeed who has a new car of the latest model, no friends to admire it and no place to go.—Trenton Courier-Advocate.

A fellow has got to be a contortionist to get by these days, comments an exchange. First of all, he's got to keep his back to the wall and his ear to the ground. He's expected to put his shoulder to the wheel, his nose to the grindstone, keep a level head, and both feet on the ground; and, at the same time, look for the silver lining with his head in the clouds.

Australia has been conducting essay contests among her young people. Winners are awarded trips to Canada. Why is this not a good idea for inter-Province education? Young people who won the trips would not only know their country better by first hand acquaintance but their patriotism would be deepened. Also, the enthusiasm of the young people who "came, saw and conquered" would arouse the curiosity and interest of all those with whom they came in contact on their return home.

The entry of the Reconstruction Party into the Federal political arena has caused little or no stir in this section. When Mr. Stevens first made his announcement of accepting the leadership of the new party there was considerable talk but of late his support seems to be on the wane. However, there is no telling what may happen within the next few weeks. Many of the electors have apparently adopted a "wait and see" attitude but according to one observer there will be little or no departure from the two old political parties. Time alone will tell.

No reports have been received from local residents which would indicate that they are having any trouble keeping warm these days. And when one stops to think that July is nearly gone, it will not be long before August arrives and departs, taking with it the vacation period and heralding September, the month in which school opens, and brings around November, the time when everyone begins to save a few extra shekels in preparation for December's fuel bills and the Christmas shopping, one can only say—It won't be long now!

We draw the attention of our readers to an advertisement of the Canadian National Railways appearing on another page, through which an appeal is being made to the people of Canada to make greater use of the system. This is the first of a series of advertisements and stresses the part played by the C.N.R. in the development of Canada's basic industries and the great contribution the publicly-owned railway system is making in service to the country. Some interesting information is being brought to the attention of the public through these advertisements and we urge our readers to read them.

The reported results of the election held on Tuesday in which the Prince Edward Island voters more or less "cleaned house", apparently indicates—something or other. The Conservative Prime Minister and his entire cabinet were voted out, along with all members of that Government, and replaced by a full quota of Opposition members. Considering the fact that there are only thirty members in the House, and thirty of said members elected on Tuesday are Liberals, it would appear as though Prince Edward Island will be working under the rules and regulations of a "Grit" directorate for the next few years.

On several road maps which have been brought to our attention during the past few weeks, several towns in this locality have been fortunate enough to have their names appear in bold type, while, if one were to search diligently for some time, the labour might be rewarded by finding Stirling, in a much smaller print, placed so that unless everyone knew where it was, they would never find the place. The attention of the publishers of these maps has been drawn to this fact, and it is gratifying to know that the matter will be given due consideration and when the new maps are issued, Stirling will receive the desired publicity. Stirling, through the camping accommodations at Oak lake, and the prominence gained through being the point where Provincial Highways Nos. 33 and 14 intersect, along with other points of interest to the travelling public and the tourist trade, is worthy of even more prominent mention on these maps than several other centres in this immediate district. Readers of this column will be pleased to learn that A. E. Dobbie, formerly the writer of the same, although not at present a resident of this village, was interested to see an extent as to bring this matter before the publishers of these pamphlets of highway information, and has reported that his efforts have been crowned with success.

There recently walked into relief headquarters in a certain town, a woman who said she had a complaint to make, says the Kingsville Reporter. Asked to state it, she replied: "Well, my husband and I just can't get along on what we are getting from this relief. We've talked it over several times, and he says that if you won't give us more he is going to go out and try to find a job." It's too bad that there are not more of those on relief who felt the same way about it. With farmers throughout the Province engaged in the haying and harvest operations and requiring men to assist in the work there are still many municipalities supporting able bodied men who have reached the point where they think the state owes them a living whether they work or not and are content to live off their fellowmen just as long as relief lasts. There is no way of estimating the number of unemployed who have the same view of things but we do know that their number is far greater than it should be. The taxpayers are kicking already at paying the costs of relief but if it continues much longer there is no telling what the end will be.

Crops Damaged

The uncertainty of the farmer's crops was never more vividly demonstrated than it has been in Stirling district during the past season. Following a particularly dry spring, many farmers were fearful that crops in general would be a failure owing to the severe drought. Later the rains came and within a few weeks prospects were bright for one of the best crops in years. Then came the storms and within the past couple of weeks considerable damage has been done the crops by rain and hail storms, accompanied by terrific winds. While the whole district has been more or less effected the West Huntingdon and Ivanhoe districts have been the hardest hit with field upon field of grain flattened out. Whether or not grain thus flattened will fill out is a matter of conjecture, but it is certain that both the quality and quantity of the grain will be seriously effected.

Weeds Not Cut

We took a drive last week-end over a number of the side roads in this district and we were amazed at the growth of weeds along the roadsides on many of the concessions. The time has arrived when all the noxious weeds should be cut and destroyed before their seeds are scattered over the landscape. According to the provisions of the Weed Control Act all these weeds must be destroyed as often as it is necessary to prevent the seed maturing. This is certainly not being done on these roads. Not only are the weeds so high in places that they block one's view, but if a vehicle is forced to turn off the road it is impossible to gauge the distance to turn out, for the long grass and weeds growing on the roadsides. Municipalities appoint weed inspectors to enforce the act and if the owners of the property do not cut the weeds the municipalities have the right to have the same cut and charge the resultant costs against the respective properties. But when the municipalities fail to have the weeds cut along the roadsides they are providing a poor example for the farmers, who are expected to cut those on their property.

Preparing For Annual Fair

Although it is still some weeks until the annual Fall Fair which is sponsored by the local Agricultural Society, much activity is being displayed by the men and the ladies who have been selected to look after the various sections of the work required to stage this annual event. Year after year these workers give of their time and energy in order that this community event may be a success and they are deserving of the support of every citizen in the district. They give unstintingly of their time without any idea of reward or personal gain, simply as a service to the community. Efforts are being made to increase the membership and each director is endeavoring to sell membership tickets. The list of special prizes is to be increased and the committees appointed to look after this work are receiving the whole-hearted support of local merchants, as well as many outside firms, and as a result the special prizes should be a feature of this year's prize list. Numerous revisions have also been made in the prize list in an attempt to make it more attractive. The usual trials of speed will be held and a football tournament will be staged. An entertainment committee has been appointed this year in order to provide attractions for the patrons of the Fair. Already much work has been done but things are still in the embryo stage. It is proposed to have a suitable platform erected in full view of the grandstand and here stage a varied programme of attractions which will appeal to all. This is an entirely new venture by the local society and is being undertaken as an added attraction. A baby show is also mooted and if the necessary arrangements can be made this event is sure to take place. Already one energetic director has promised to donate a silver cup for the prettiest baby. The horse-shoe pitchers will also be given a chance to display their skill. Bicycle races, tug o' war and foot races are other attractions that are being considered. The Championship School Fair will also take place in connection with the local Fair and an added attraction this year will be the exhibits of the Stirling Boys' Club. The displays of the Girls' Home Garden and Canning Competition will also be an added feature. On the whole the programme for this community event looks very promising and attractive, and should appeal to all classes in the community. But unless the co-operation and support of the entire community is forthcoming the directors may work as hard as they wish and still fall short of success. Plan now to become a new member, be an exhibitor, or if you can't be an exhibitor, plan to come and bring your friends.

What Others Say

UNCONGENIAL OCCUPATIONS

(Niagara Falls Review)

The most unhappy people on earth are those who are in uncongenial occupations, who get the wrong kind of education and jobs and had to be content to be forever square pegs in round holes. With good advice from the vocational guidance council, many such mistakes will be eliminated.

QUITE CORRECT

(Dunville Chronicle)

After God had finished making the rattlesnake, the toad and the vampire, he had a little material left over out of which he made the community knocker. A knocker is a two-legged animal with a cork-screw soul, a water-logged brain and a combination backbone of jelly and glue. Where his heart is, is a tumor of questionable principles. When he goes out for a stroll, good men look the other way, the angels in heaven weep and the devil bolts his door to keep him out.

WHAT A TORY EDITOR THINKS OF BIG BREAK

(Almonte Gazette)

It seems a pity that the Prime Minister of Canada and his lieutenants in the cabinet did not make greater efforts to compose the differences that existed between themselves and the Hon. H. Stevens, former Minister of Trade and Commerce. It was to be expected that Mr. Stevens, having been given what might be termed "the bum's rush" by his erstwhile colleagues would not take it sitting down. As it is now, the Conservative Party has another problem on its hands and one that is likely to play hob with its already slim chances of winning a victory in the approaching elections. No one will deny Mr. Bennett's ability but many question his political acumen. He is a little too much like the bull that charged the railway train to make a success of politics in a democratic country. If Mr. Bennett hadn't been so much of a dictator he might have healed that breach between himself and Stevens. As it is he has done a distinct disservice to the Conservative party, and in fact, may be responsible for annihilating that historic party.

LIBERALS USE RADIO TO OPEN CAMPAIGN

Ottawa, July 18 — The Liberal General Election Campaign will be ushered in by three radio addresses which Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King will deliver. They will be on July 31st, Aug. 2nd and Aug. 5th, from 10 to 10.30 p.m., Eastern Daylight time. On August 7, the Liberal leader will speak at a party rally in Kingston at which Eastern Ontario Constituencies will participate. Liberal headquarters here made the announcement today.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Penn Yan, N.Y.

July 19th, 1935

To the Editor,
Stirling News-Argus,
Dear Sir—

In your article of July eleventh you were giving thanks that the flood and storm disaster did not visit you in Canada as frequently as in the United States.

However that may be, the recent flood in the Finger Lakes district (of which I am a resident) was not of the usual form. This flood is not comparable to those along the Mississippi, in the Finger Lakes section the country is rolling and in some places the hills recede at the rate of eight hundred feet in a mile.

But what I wish to say is that the rain fell on Sunday evening and all during the night so heavily and without ceasing that Lake Kenosca rose thirty-one inches during the storm. To understand it better, the lake is approximately twenty miles long and from one to two miles wide, with a water shed of not more than two miles wide. There is also a creek flowing into it at the upper end. You can readily understand by that how fast the rain fell in that twelve hours to raise the lake thirty-one inches while the water flowed away at Penn Yan twenty-seven inches over the dam. My point is that such a storm is an irregularity in this section, the last such storm being seventy-five years or more ago.

The destruction in the immediate vicinity was slight compared with the towns south of here.

We live on a steep slope, the lower floors of our home being slightly above ground level, and the water washed in our back door, carrying silt and depositing it to a depth of one inch over our lower floors. I hope this letter is interesting to you.

Yours very truly,
GORDON DREWRY

A Flowery Figure

The British Ministry of Agriculture reveals how much Great Britain spends each year on cut flowers: $60,000,000.

Love's Labour Lost

"Yes," said the explorer, "I had many disappointments, but none stands out like the one that came to me when I was a boy."

"Some terrible shock that fixed itself indelibly in your memory."

"Exactly. I had, with great difficulty, crawled under a tent to see the circus, and then discovered it was a mission meeting."

Monkey Business

We are anxious to see how the Florida papers played up that story about the man who is turning into an ape in California.

Not the Guide, Surely

A party of tourists were being shown over the great old English cathedral by a guide.

"Behind the altar," he told them, "lies Richard the Second. In the churchyard outside lies Mary Queen of Scots, also Henry the Eighth. And who," he demanded halting above an unmarked flagstone, "who do you think is a-lying 'ere on this spot?"

"Well," answered a nearby tourist, "I don't know for sure, but I have my suspicions."

The Silver Lining

The father was reading the school report which had just been handed to him by his hopeful son. His brow was wrathful as he read:

"English, poor; French, weak; mathematics, fair," and he gave a glance of disgust at the quaking lad.

"Well, dad," said the son, "it is not as good as it might be, but have you seen that?" And he pointed to the next line, which read: "Health, excellent."

Giveaway

"It says the man was shot by his wife at close range."

"Then there must have been powder marks on the body."

"Yes, that's why she shot him."

A Higher Bid

Abe was at a dance and lost a wallet containing $600. He got up on a chair and announced:

"Gentlemen, I lost my pocketbook with $600 in it. To the man that finds it I will give $50."

Voice from the rear: "I'll give $75."

"What's your name, lad?"

"Willie Brown."

"And yours?"

"Tommy Wallace."

NEWS OF INTEREST FOR BUSY FARMERS

Mildew Control

Mildew now appearing on roses may be controlled by using one teaspoonful of baking soda to a quart of water. Spray in the morning. Also dust with sulphur when foliage is wet.

Weekly Crop Report

Fall wheat is ripening and cutting is expected to begin shortly. Barley is filling well and maturing rapidly. Oat crops give promises of better than average yields. Haying is now general. Pastures are in excellent condition. Corn and root crops are making satisfactory growth. Early raspberries and sweet cherries are being marketed, with prospects of a good yield. All fruits continue to show good promise. Growth of tobacco has been rapid and indications point to an early harvest.

Insect Control

Numerous complaints indicate heavy infestation of insects in Ontario gardens.

Cutworms may be controlled with a poison bait scattered around young plants in the evening. Use 1 teaspoonful of Paris Green, 1 tablespoon of Molasses and 1 quart Bran. Mix all into a fluffy mixture.

Aphis and other sucking insects may be treated with Black Leaf 40, Nicotine or Evergreen. For better results add a little soap and spray to strike all insects. Such poisons spread over leaf surfaces will also kill chewing insects as they devour portions of the foliage.

Ants in lawns may be eradicated by pouring a small quantity of Carbon Bisulphide into the holes and plugging same. This forms a gas which works down the runs, killing the insects.

For Tarnish Plant Bug, dust the tops of plants with either tobacco dust or dusting sulphur.

Snails and Slugs may be removed by sprinkling fine, well-slaked lime over the ground surface just before dark.

The Canadian Apple Crop

The preliminary estimate of the 1934 Canadian commercial apple crop is 3,890,643 barrels, as compared with 5,473,233 barrels in 1933, a decrease of approximately 29 per cent., says the report just published by the Dominion Department of Agriculture. All producing provinces, with the exception of British Columbia where the crop approximated that of last year, recorded decreases, due chiefly to frost damage during the winter of 1933-34. The Nova Scotia crop declined 26 per cent. below the phenomenal yield of 1933, while decreases of 45 per cent., 61 per cent. and 70 per cent. were recorded by New Brunswick, Quebec and Ontario respectively as a result of frost damage. Consequently local supplies in Quebec and Ontario were insufficient to meet demand and a large volume of Nova Scotia apples were imported. These apples sold at proportionately low prices.

There was also a considerably larger volume of Ontario apples available for distribution than was anticipated at the beginning of the season, which, together with the Nova Scotia arrivals resulted in an unusually large proportion of low grade apples on Central Canada markets. The depressing effect prohibited higher price levels for the comparatively small volume of top-grade stock available and the reaction on the domestic market paralleled that of the English crop on the United Kingdom market. The experience of the season just concluded clearly illustrates, says the report, that volume shipment of inferior fruit reacts to the detriment of all concerned and will not create a permanent demand for apples from this source.

Chicory

Chicory is a persistent perennial weed with a deep, long, thick root. Introduced from Europe years ago it was grown as a cultivated plant for its roots, which were ground and mixed with coffee. At the present time it is considered one of our most troublesome weeds on road sides, fence lines, vacant places and occasionally on cultivated fields.

Having escaped from cultivation it is now growing in the wild state in every county in the province and increasing rapidly.

Chicory is easily distinguished by its leafless, much-branched stems bearing numerous clusters of flower heads (without flower stalks) on the naked branches. The flowers are about one and a half inches across, a bright blue in colour and are usually closed by noon. The leaves, which are long with irregular edges, spread out on the ground and resemble those of the common dandelion.

The presence of chicory in a cultivated field is an indication of lack of cultivation. A short rotation of crops is important, with deep plowing as soon as the crop is off, followed by thorough cultivation both ways all fall using broad shares on the cultivator. A hoed crop following this method should clean up all chicory. The writer has seen fields with chicory growing all around the fences but not a plant showing in the field. Other cases have been observed where chicory plants are found growing all over fields. Upon investigation it was found in every case that proper implements were not used and that cultivation was not practised. One need not expect to be able to control chicory with poor plowing, followed by a disc harrow or narrow teeth on the cultivator. All growth is cut off below the crown when broad shares, which overlap, are used and by cultivation both ways, a more thorough job is insured. You can pull chicory till you "see stars" but due to the length of the roots, plants cannot be pulled out. Scattered plants may be cut off well below the crown in hot dry weather and a handful of salt applied to the portion of the root that remains. Spudding off below the crown, filling in the hole with earth after, in order to exclude the light or air has also proven effective. For large patches chemical weed killers are the only practical solution to the problem, using sodium chlorate or a chemical with a sodium chlorate base. One pound per gallon of water per 100 square feet is recommended, using a power sprayer. Care must be exercised when spraying with sodium chlorate as there is a fire hazard in its use. Roots are at their weakest point when the plant is in the bloom stage. This is the ideal time to spud or spray. The vigour of the plants being sprayed, their stage of development and the condition of the soil, are all important factors in their destruction with chemicals, and it may be found necessary to make a second application to get any scattered plants. Consult your Agricultural Representative or Weed Inspector for information on Chemical Weed Killers.

An average chicory plant will produce 2000 seeds and the importance of destroying plants before nature cannot be emphasized too strongly. The seeds are impurities in clover seeds and very difficult to remove. Due to the length of its roots chicory plants cannot be hand picked. Those who are interested in keeping clover fields for seed are urged to spud all plants before seeds mature. It will be time profitably spent. Chicory has no place in a progressive municipality. It is becoming more objectionable each year. Thorough cultivation is the solution to the problem on cultivated land. Spudding is for scattered plants and the use of chemical weed killers for fence lines and road sides. Now is the time for action.

"As a fleet owner, I am pleased to say that Chevrolet trucks are very satisfactory in every way in their performance. We operate sixteen of these trucks practically all the time and have ever since 1929. Our chief work has been graveling, hauling coal on a ton-and-a-half Chevrolet truck, and when harvesting we haul a great deal of grain in this district over long distances. The load of grain is never less than ninety-five to forty miles. Our speed is from thirty-five to forty miles per hour and our gas mileage is figured from twelve to fourteen miles per gallon. Up-keep of our trucks is very low or almost nothing, as we generally run each truck fifty thousand miles and then overhaul truck completely, making it ready for another fifty thousand miles. As operating is very cheap and repairs very reasonable it would be hard to persuade me in any way to change to another kind of truck."

A. E. PRENTICE,
Dauphin, Man.

MEN who study haulage costs—like Mr. Prentice, who writes the letter reproduced herewith about his sixteen Chevrolet units—know that Chevrolet Trucks are as outstanding in economy and durability as they are in low price. Chevrolet Trucks handle tough hauling jobs at lower cost because they are built to Chevrolet's own high standard of quality in every part. They keep on saving you money, day after day and year after year, because Chevrolet quality means stamina and longer life. You get top economy—top dependability—in Chevrolet and Maple Leaf Trucks. And if we're not mistaken, that's exactly what you want!

A complete line of Chevrolet ½ and 1½ ton Trucks... Maple Leaf 1 ton Heavy Duty Trucks... new General Motors Trailers... and Dual Performance Maple Leaf units. A wide selection of General Motors-built truck bodies. Low delivered prices, easy GMAC terms. New Owner Service Policy.

Springbrook Ontario,

July 15th, 1935

Dear Laura and Bert,—
The preacher declared it, the papers have said

That a lad and a lassie have lately been wed.

The young couple united, we see them with pride,

Arise Burton Wood, the groom, Laura McIntyre the bride.

This evening your true friends have all gathered here—

The young and the old folks now wish you good cheer.

We trust that your future will always be bright.

Your pathway be joyous, and your troubles be light.

Now if shadows should come, just both whistle and sing,

It makes the clouds vanish, 'twill hap-plena bring.

Laura, be to your husband a kind,

trusting wife
And then he will love you the rest of his life.

Bert, be a good sport, don't get cranky or pout.

Then your wife will be happy when you are about.

Now on this occasion, we've brought you tonight,

Some housekeeping things which we hope you will like.

Just accept these few gifts as a slight token we pray

Of the love and esteem we shall bear you always.

DROWNING IN BELLEVILLE ON SUNDAY

Becoming exhausted while swimming in the Bay of Quinte almost directly below the Belleville Hospital, at noon on Sunday, Patrick Hickey, of Belleville, was drowned in 18 feet of water. Frantic efforts of two companions, Douglas Stork, and Ernie Davis, who were with Hickey at the time, failed to save him. Young Davis himself narrowly escaped drowning, as he attempted a rescue. Going down for a second time as Davis reached him, Hickey obtained a scissor hold about his rescuer's body, and Davis was himself near exhaustion before he struggled free and returned to safety. The trio had been out in the Bay sailing about in Douglas Stork's boat. Davis and Pat Hickey decided to go in swimming, and the pair were returning to the boat when the latter suddenly called out "I can't make it," and sank from view before his friends could reach him. Douglas Stork succeeded in manoeuvring the boat to within five feet of Hickey and Davis who were threshing about in the water, before Hickey sank from sight for the last time. C. M. Stork, father of one of the three boys, was first on the scene. Hurriedly divesting himself of his clothing Mr. Stork attempted three dives in the deep water, but to no avail. Dragging operations were commenced within twenty minutes of the drowning.

FIFTH INSTALLMENT

SYNOPSIS — Six persons are in an inner office of the law firm of Dawson, McGuire and Locke at Philadelphia. A master hearing in the divorce case of Rowland vs. Rowland is under way. Mrs. Rowland, represented by her lawyer brother, Mr. Willard; Mr. Rowland, the defendant, and his attorney, Mr. Trumbull; the court clerk and Mr. Dawson, the master, are the six persons. There is a new development in the case. After failing to defend himself against the charge of adultery in earlier hearings, Mr. Rowland digs up evidence and asks the court's permission to produce witnesses and resist the suit. Judge Dawson overrules the heated objections of Mr. Willard, and orders the witness brought in. Rowland's lawyer goes to get the witness but finds her dead — chloroformed. She is Mrs. Barbara Keith, wife of a prominent Philadelphia business man. Judge Dawson phones for the police. Detective Tommy Rankin is assigned to the case. He is now questioning all of the parties involved in the case. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

"If you don't mind, Mr. Trumbull," said the detective, "I'd first like to straighten out what occurred this afternoon. I understand you also summoned Mrs. Rowland's .... companion — the man with whom you claim she is involved?"

"Chiefly because the law requires he receive due notice of the libel, so he may be represented if he desires to defend himself. I don't need his evidence and hardly intended to call him. Naturally, he'd be a hostile, difficult witness; he'd never willingly confirm Mrs. Keith's story and admit an illicit affair with my client's wife."

"Is he here? Did he answer the summons or disregard it?" Rankin asked.

"I noticed him in the outside office, after Allen and I both arrived," Mr. Trumbull stated. "But I've had no reason to speak with him. If he did not leave before I ... before the tragedy was discovered, he should still be there."

The detective absent-mindedly drew lines on a sheet of paper. "And who is he, Mr. Trumbull?"

"I know little more about him than that his name is Hugh Campbell. He isn't a Philadelphian; he comes from New York and has some sort of connection with night clubs. I believe he supplies talent and produces entertainment for them."

Had he been watching Rankin carefully, he might have observed that he abrupt start.

"Hugh Campbell?" Abruptly he changed the subject. "With regard to Mr. Willard and his sister," he asked, "as far as you're aware, did either of them enter fifteen-o-five before the meeting, if only for a minute?"

Mr. Trumbull pondered. "Not while Mr. Rowland and I remained with Mrs. Keith, I'm certain. Of course, I can't say what happened after we left the library and Allen went below. As I recall, Mrs. Rowland preceded us into the main office and talked briefly to Mr. Campbell. Then she returned to this room for about two minutes, I suppose to rejoin her brother. And while I was phoning my own office out there, she came out again and rather hurriedly left the suit altogether, by the centre door."

"She went into the corridor? Does she have any idea how long she stayed away?"

"More than five minutes, certainly — closer, perhaps, to eight," the lawyer replied slowly. "Mr. Rowland had rejoined me over three minutes before she came back. Then she spoke to Mr. Campbell again, and re-entered the library. Mr. Willard stayed in here throughout and did not come out."

Rankin pushed his chair back as a signal to conclude the interview.

"Thank you, Mr. Trumbull, that will be all now," he dismissed him. "Will you please ask Mr. Rowland to come in next?"

A brief space after Mr. Trumbull departed his client dropped into the chair he had vacated. A bronzed giant, still under thirty, Allen Rowland had the broad shoulders and stalwart physique of an athlete. He had silky and blonde curly hair, a broad nose and full lips, which with a twist might easily relapse into sullenness. Attractive though his virility was, thick hands and a heavy neck betrayed a natural crudeness and uncouthness. He was fully cognizant of his pleasant appearance.

He carried himself with perfect ease, yet Rankin sensed that his poise was acquired. He was not "to the manner born." Mr. Dawson introduced them; and appreciating the gravity of the situation, he acknowledged the detective's greeting soberly. Then, his face pale and anxious, he lighted a cigarette, and waited for the first question.

Rankin opened sympathetically. "I realize this is a most regrettable affair to you, Mr. Rowland. But I must ask you to bear with a few inquiries, mainly about Mrs. Keith's movements this afternoon. You accompanied her to the meeting didn't you?"

"Yes, I called for her at the Aldwick Apartments at two o'clock," Allen Rowland answered. "We drove to town in her car, with Mr. Keith's chauffeur, the trip took us about half an hour."

"Did Mrs. Keith ever say anything either then or before, to suggest she anticipated any danger to herself?" Or that she had reason to fear some one?"

"No, I had no warning anything so terrible might happen. Naturally, she was a bit anxious about the hearing; but otherwise she seemed perfectly normal."

"And after you arrived," Rankin queried casually, "did you remain with her the entire time until the hearing started at three o'clock?"

Mr. Rowland's answer accorded with that of the lawyer. "Oh, no. Mr. Trumbull and I both left her in that empty office next door, after about ten minutes. She wanted to be alone and preferred not to wait outside. Then I went below to dismiss her chauffeur, since Mr. Trumbull had consented to escort her home in his car; I didn't return to her again."

Rankin was satisfied at this check, through Rowland, of Mr. Trumbull's account and movements.

"I think that covers the points I'm interested in at present," he said. He turned to Mr. Simpkins: "Be good enough to request Mrs. Rowland to come in."

With a nod, the court clerk rose to do his bidding. Adele Rowland followed him from Mr. Dawson's chamber. She was a large woman, in both body and features, yet perfectly proportioned, and, without being beautiful, was extremely handsome and striking. Willful and dominating, Rankin clearly perceived she was accustomed to command.

"I only wished to ask, Mrs. Rowland if you entered the office where Mrs. Keith met her death, after Mr. Trumbull and your husband left her there?" asked Rankin.

Taken unawares, at the abrupt query, as though to gain time to cover her poise, she repeated it slowly.

"Did I enter that room? No I never went near Mrs. Keith; they had closed this door between and I stayed in here with my brother, waiting for Mr. Dawson."

"How about the outside door in the corridor, when you quit the suite altogether? That was unlocked; why did you go out?"

Mrs. Rowland caught her breath nervously. "I went below to the stand in the lobby to purchase .... a newspaper," she answered.

"That was the only place you went?" the detective asked incredulously. "That little errand took you the eight minutes or more you were gone?"

"No .... on the way back I stopped in the lady's retiring room on this floor."

Though the reply came too glibly to be convincing, Rankin appreciated her self-possession in producing an excuse he could neither investigate nor disprove.

"I believe you are acquainted with Mr. Hugh Campbell. Before you left these offices, you spoke to him and then returned to the library. Could you tell me what you talked about?"

Haughtily and disdainfully, the woman drew herself to her full height. "That is none of your affair, Rankin," she replied scornfully, her mouth curled. "I don't care to discuss my connection with Mr. Campbell, which is wholly private and has nothing to do with Mrs. Keith's unhappy death."

Rankin nodded, unabashed. "As you wish, of course," he agreed, unpleasantly amiable. "Then I may as well have Mr. Campbell in next and question; perhaps he will be less reticent."

He observed a sudden flash of alarm and fury illumine her eyes. They hardened and she had to bite her lip to restrain a resentful retort, as Rankin stepped to the office entrance, still smiling provocatively.

"Jenks!" he called, and when the detective approached, he said "I think there is a Mr. Hugh Campbell waiting out there. Ask him to join us, please."

For a moment, his assistant's features puckered in a puzzled reflective frown.

"Hugh Campbell?" he repeated. "There's no one ...." Abruptly, his eyes lighted. "Oh, yes, the phone clerk did say a Mr. Campbell arrived for the hearing just around two-forty. A few minutes before three he got a phone call; he left the joint right away and hasn't come back."

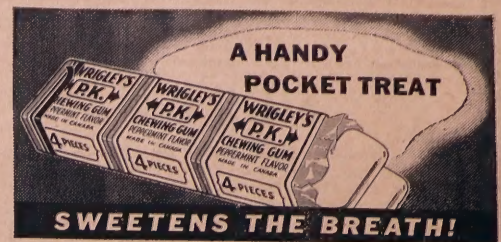

Tommy Rankin was more than ordinarily interested in Hugh Campbell. For he was a power to be reckoned with in the bootlegging business, commanding an organization to import liquor from Canada to a chain of road-houses and "joints" in Connecticut and Long Island. Though he had never met him, Rankin knew he was no gangster; on the contrary, urbane, shrewd and well-bred, he travelled in good society, a picturesque and somewhat mysterious individual. He had influence in political circles and never personally participated in the aggressive activities of his agents. But it was his audacity and ambitious management that developed an effective smuggling ring, controlled the racketeers in his employ, arranged for the acceptance of his wares and paid the necessary protection.

Then this was the man Adele Rowland had chosen, it was claimed, to be her lover. If she contemplated a fresh martial venture, her new choice, the detective reflected in grim amusement was certainly more romantic and exciting than either the late Tom Marshall or her present incubus.

He received quietly enough Jenks' announcement of Campbell's departure.

"Did he leave any message to explain the call," he inquired, "or indicate where he was going?"

"No, he didn't," Jenks replied. "All I learned is that some chap rag the office and inquired for him; and the phone clerk summoned him to her desk, where there was a connected instrument, to take the call."

Rankin's interest quickened. "At her desk? Then she might have caught some of the conversation."

"Yes, she could hardly help hearing several things this Campbell said, he spoke so loudly and ... well, violently. First he shouted 'What?' and then very much alarmed Oh, my God! Next he cried, 'You fool!' and said he'd join him; he hung up, greatly upset, and hurried out without a word."

"Perhaps Mrs. Rowland," Rankin turned inquiringly toward the woman, "can offer a reason for this disturbance or has an idea where he went?"

He could not judge, from her diffident manner, whether she was relieved or troubled by Campbell's absence.

"I don't know anything about it, Mr. Rankin," she returned brusquely.

Rankin drew his assistant into the central office, but beyond the hearing of both the staff and those concerned in the divorce.

"RED" RYAN PAROLED

A little more than eleven years after he entered the gates at Kingston Penitentiary, condemned to spend a life of solitude at hard labour, Norman J. "Red" Ryan, notorious criminal of more than a decade ago, left a free man tonight. Released on parole, Ryan boarded a Canadian National Railway train at 7.07 on Tuesday, for Toronto.

H. B. FETTERLEY PURCHASES HOME

Mr. H. B. Fetterley, former well-known superintendent of the Ontario School for the Deaf, who has lately been public school inspector at Aurora Ont., is expected to return to Belleville again, where it is intimated that he may take up permanent residence. He has recently completed the purchase of a home at 19 Highland Ave., from Mr. George N. Simmons, Belleville.

MARMORA MAN IS TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

William Murphy was the victim of a painful accident while working on the highway east of this village on Monday morning. As he was holding steel with Frank Grant striking, the eight pound hammer came off the handle, inflicting a blow on Murphy's stomach. He was later conveyed to Belleville General Hospital.

MY KITCHEN

I like a kitchen big enough
To hold a rocking chair,
With windows looking to the sun
And flowers blooming there.
I like big cupboards by the wall
That hold a lot of things,
The cups hung up on little hooks,
A yellow bird that sings.
I like to do my mending there,
Where I can watch the road,
And see the teams come plodding home
And smell their fragrant load
Of heavy sheaves at stacking time,
Or hear the wagons creak
And groan beneath their golden weight
When it is threshing week.
I like to have the supper on
And let it simmer slow,
With rich brown gravy bubbling up,
Around the meat, you know —
With apple pie set out to cool,
And flaky new-baked bread,
With golden syrup in a bowl
And jelly bright and red.

I like to have the lamps ashine
With yellow glowing light,
And have the kitchen clear and warm
When they come home at night.

COUPLETS OF HATE

These are the things that I do not like:
High-heeled women who love to hike;
Vegetable salads with beans and beets;
Virgin snow in the city streets;
The over-sung poem of God and the Tree;
Nails that are filed in public places;
The first five days of six-day races;
Dresses with frills and lacey trimmin';
Senility — bragging of wine and women;
Trains that leave at a certain minute;
Those who make friends for what there is in it;
Music as played by his Kingship — Wayne;
A hat on my head when it starts to rain;
Honey in jars instead of the comb;
All signs reading "God bless our home";
People who drive their cars too slowly;
Rooms built for looks instead of for fun;
Rolls, with their insides only half done;
Guests who call when I don't want to see 'em;
These are the things that I do not like.

A Few Words to You About the C.N.R.

During 1934 the average number of persons employed by Canadian National Railways was 74,774, and the wages paid them came to almost one hundred million dollars. This represented, both as to number employed and amount of payroll, an advance over 1933, and practically the whole increase in personnel was due to re-employment of those whose services had previously been dispensed with owing to lack of business.

The average mileage of road operated in 1934 was 23,676 miles, making Canadian National Railways the largest single railway system in the Western Hemisphere.

In 1934 the total freight transported by Canadian National Railways amounted to 44,719,477 tons, an increase of eighteen per cent over the previous year. The average haul of freight was 326 miles. The value of this freight is not ascertainable, but it must run into many hundreds of millions of dollars, and, comprising all kinds of necessities and luxuries, contributed to the welfare and happiness of every man, woman and child in the Dominion.

Canadian National Railways carried over 10,000,000 passengers during 1934. This was also an increase over 1933. These paid in fares $16,331,299, or an average of $1.62 per passenger with an average journey of seventy-one and three-quarter miles.

These figures, without embellishment or amplification, show the vastness of the public services rendered by Canadian National Railways. The system is conducted on an economical scale as is consistent with the highest standards of railway operation. The improvement in business in 1934 over the previous year enabled more people to be employed ... more wages to be paid ... more service to be rendered. Also, more money was available to be spent among Canadian producers and Canadian merchants.

A continuation of this improvement in our business will carry on and enlarge these good results — the whole country will benefit. This year Canadian National Railways is co-operating in an extensive way in the national movement to diminish unemployment and to restore industrial activity ... to help banish the depression and bring better times for everyone.

Canadian National Railways feels justified in asking for your co-operation. A greater use by Canadian citizens of the facilities offered by this help not only us, but all Canada ... and you will receive full value for every dollar spent.

During the present Summer season the C.N.R. is providing special fares and excursions between points throughout Canada. These are exceptional travel bargains. The nearest C.N.R. agent will be glad to give full particulars.

HEAVY STORM IN TWEED DISTRICT

A terrific thunder and lightning storm passed over Tweed and surrounding district early on Saturday, and some damage was reported. A barn owned by Edward Courneyea of Stoco was struck and burned before the owner could remove even one piece of harness. Mr. Courneyea was standing at the window of his home at the time the building was struck and rushed to the barn, but flames burst from every part of the building, almost instantly. Some grain and hay burned. Four cattle owned by Matt Cassidy also of Stoco were struck and instantly killed, while resting in a pasture field near the Cassidy home. The storm continued over the district for nearly a half hour.

WARREN - WRIGHT

A very pretty wedding took place on Tuesday, July 16th, at 11 a.m., at Salem United Church, when Vera Susanne, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Wright, became the bride of Mr. Wm. Warren, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Warren, with Rev. Mr. Lackey officiating.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, entered the church to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding music, played by Miss Leola Kelusky. She looked charming in her gown of white morgan crepe, fashioned in straight lines with three-quarter length jacket, trimmed with faggoting and buttons. She wore a white mohair picture hat with shoes and gloves to match and carried a bouquet of Butterfly roses, baby breath and fern.

Miss Aletha Horton was her cousin's bridesmaid and wore a pretty gown of shell pink morgan crepe, with touches of faggoting. Her picture hat was of white mohair with shoes and gloves to match. She carried pink trico roses, baby breath and fern. Mr. Albert Warren, brother of the groom, acted as groomsman, with Mr. Edwin Warren and Mr. Fred Hedington as ushers.

During the signing of the register Miss Annie Elliott sang "I Love You Truly".

Also a Bible was presented to the young couple, it being the first wedding in the church in forty years.

Immediately following the ceremony wedding breakfast was served to about twenty guests at the home of the bride. Later, after receiving congratulations, Mr. and Mrs. Warren left, mid showers of confetti for a motor trip to Muskoka Lakes. The bride travelled in pale blue crepe, with sport felt hat, shoes, gloves and purse of white. Upon their return the young couple will reside in Kingston. The groom's gift to the bride was a handsome natural gold bracelet, set with onyx and pearl; to the bridesmaid, soloist and pianist, gold compact; the groomsman, gold tie pin, and the ushers, tie clips.
 Mr. and Mrs. Warren received many beautiful and costly gifts.

WEST HUNTINGDON

Every year seems to have its peculiarities and this one would seem to be excellent all the previous years in that the weather is going to the extremes. Old timers say that the storm in the early hours of Saturday morning was the worst storm they had witnessed for years. The thunder and lightning were continuous for over an hour and were accompanied by extra heavy rain fall and high wind that surely made a wreck of numerous grain fields, rendering them almost impossible to cut with the binder. The lightning endeavored to play jokes on some of the buildings. St. Andrew's Church was damaged to the extent of about $150.00, the steeple being badly wrecked. Mr. Fred Reid's house was also badly gutted by lightning, but no fire resulted.

Mr. Harold Reid had four of his cows killed.

A large number of relatives of Mr. Peter McInroy gathered at his home on Sunday and spent the day in a friendly visit, it being Mr. McInroy's birthday. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. J. Simmons, Foxboro; Mr. and Mrs. Jas. McMullen, Holloway; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Empey, Eldorado; Mr. John McInroy, Vancouver, B.C.; Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Caldwell, Shirley and Gerald, Trenton; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Campion, Marmora; Mr. and Mrs. Harold McLeaming of town and Mr. and Mrs. Goldie McInroy. Mr. Melville Donnan conducted the service in the United Church on Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. M. McKee, of Prince Albert, Sask., were Monday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hammond.

Miss Jane Gunter of Gunter, Ont., is spending this week with her sister, Mrs. Jas. McGowan.

Mr. Jack Pitman spent the weekend with friends in Millbrook.

Miss Sarah Johnston of the O.S.D., Belleville, is spending the vacation as guest of her mother, Mrs. Maggie Johnson, Church St.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Carr, Alvin and Leah, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Eli Brummell, Massawaga. Miss Muriel Milligan, Newburgh, spent the past week with her friend, Miss Evelyn McInroy.

Mr. and Mrs. Melville Donnan attended the funeral of Mr. Murney Sharpe, on Saturday.

DREDGING BEGINS

The dredge of the Russell Construction Co. arrived in Trenton on Sunday and commenced dredging operations on the eastern channel on Monday, according to the Trenton Courier Advocate.

MOVED TO BROCKVILLE

Mr. Bernard Veley, who has been employed by the Canadian National Railways as section man in Tweed for some time, received notice of his transfer to Brockville, and he and his family have already taken up their residence in that city. Mr. Veley was active within the ranks of the Tweed horse-shoe pitchers' club and was considered one of the best fingers in the district.

NEW VOTERS' LIST READY ON AUGUST 15

Voters' lists for the Federal election will be completed August 15th, it was announced on Tuesday by Col. John Thompson, Dominion franchise commissioner. Following the recent revision, they are being printed at the Government Bureau at the rate of 10 daily. The lists will show 6,000,000 men and women eligible to vote, an increase of 250,000 over the basic lists last year. It will be the first election in Canada where a basic list has been used.

FRANKFORD ELEVATOR BURNED

A landmark in the village of Frankford, a grain elevator owned by J. E. Finnegan was completely destroyed by fire of an unknown origin on Monday evening, shortly before eleven o'clock. The loss is estimated at $1,800 partially covered by insurance. Five hundred bushels of oats and barley, owned by Stanley May, of Thurlow Township, who was using the building as a storage plant were burned and the grain was not insured.

The fire was first noticed by John King, a resident of the village, and although the volunteer fire brigade soon responded, the flames had gained too much headway and their attention was directed to the nearby buildings which were in danger of catching fire from the flying sparks. This especially applied to the C.N.R. freight sheds, which are only 150 feet distant from the elevator. A car of salt on a nearby siding was removed to safety by the volunteer workers.

This elevator has been built for over fifty years and in the early days was the centre of activity for the district. It was formerly owned by the Turley Brothers, who used it as a storage place, they carrying on a large grain trade. Later Mr. Finnegan, who purchased it has used the building for a grist mill and storage elevator. Just recently new bins, a flanning mill and a new set of scales has been added to the equipment. It has not been decided as to the rebuilding of the structure.

COUNTY COUNCILLORS RECEIVE MINUTES

Following a resolution to that effect passed at the last session of Hastings County Council, reeves and deputy reeves throughout the county will receive this week or next, completed printed forms of the entire minutes of the last session of Council. They have been under preparation at the office of the County Clerk for some time past. This is a new departure.

TWO MEN LOST IN BUSH FOR WEEK ARE LOCATED

Lorne Hay, Seymour township farmer, missing from his home since last Sunday, has been found. Hay was found on the Walkinshaw farm, near Ingram's woods, by berry pickers and was in an exhausted condition, suffering from loss of memory and lack of food. He was taken to the home of his brother, Bert, where he was reported progressing favourably.

Lost in the bush near St. Oia, 65 miles northwest of Belleville, since one week ago Sunday, "Danny" Gunter, 22-year-old farmhand, has been found, it was learned on Saturday. He suffered no ill effects from his stay in the bush.

BRIDE-ELECT SHOWERED

On Wednesday evening, July 10th, a large number gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Wright, in honour of their daughter, Vera, to present her with a miscellaneous shower, prior to her marriage to Mr. Wm. Warren, Kingston. The numerous gifts were very useful, consisting of granite, china, linens, glass, pyrex, silver, and envelopes, containing money which showed the high esteem in which Vera was held in the community.

About ten thirty o'clock the gathering was called to order on the lawn by Rev. H. H. Lackey, who acted as chairman for the evening. The following programme was enjoyed. A mock wedding was staged, which was very amusing; solo by Mrs. Frances Jeffrey; a reading by Miss Myrtle Reid; a duet by Hilda Kilpatrick and Neva Hagerman. After the program an address from the members of Salem Sunday School and Y.P. Society was read by Miss Josephine Sime, and an end table and a lovely electric lamp were presented by Messrs. Murney Johnston and Lorne Hagerman. Salem, Ontario, July 10th, 1935

Friendship is the golden chain that makes the world so fair and twines its golden links about our lives, making our friends more dear as time goes on.

We, the members of your Sunday School class and Young People's Society, feel that we could not allow you to leave our church without expressing our appreciation for all your able assistance rendered so willingly to all the church activities. Your cheerful response to duty has endeared you to us all.

We shall miss you in many ways and often think of you in your new home. It is our wish that your home may be a truly happy home, one of those with the latching always on the outside, and one that radiates a wholesome influence in the community in which you will reside.

We wish to express our regard for you in a more tangible way than mere words, and as a token thereof we ask you to accept these gifts as an assurance of our sincere good wishes for your future happiness. May they often remind you of your Salem friends.

Then followed an address from the community, which was read by Miss Edith Tanner.

Harold, Ont.,

July 10th, 1935

Dear Vera and Bill:

Your friends, having heard of your approaching marriage, have assembled tonight to spend one more pleasant evening with you, before you leave our community to set up your new home.

We are glad of this opportunity to do honour to one of our girls, who has been such a valuable asset in church and community life. You have grown up in our midst and have always been an earnest and willing worker in our social and church activities.

Bill, we most heartily congratulate you on your choice of a life partner, and our wish is that God's richest blessing may follow you both throughout your wedded life.

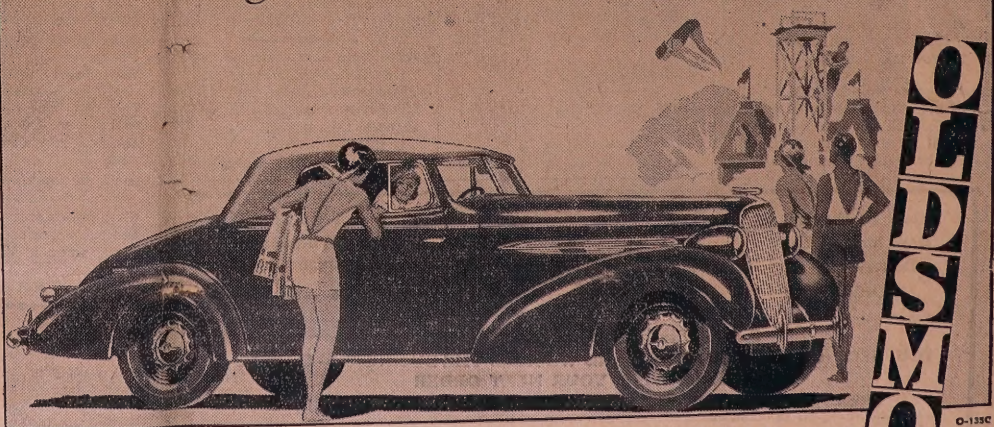

We wish to show our appreciation of you by asking you to accept these gifts as a slight remembrance of our love and esteem, and that they may serve to keep fresh and green the friendships of your friends and neighbours of this community.

Signed on behalf of your friends and neighbours — Margaret Reid, Mabel Twiddy, Ethel Clements, Lelah Johnston, Josephine Sime, Edith Tanner.

The bride-and-groom-to-be responded in a few well-chosen words, thanking all for their gifts, and inviting everyone to visit them in their new home.

As time goes on, the cake, and lemon and Des Jodel departed for their home, leaving the young couple every success.

(By The Office OWL)

Howdy Gang!

Come gather 'round and listen to
 A poem writ by one Who firmly thinks that one and all
 Should buy their goods "to hum".

For after all, the taxes here
 Aren't paid by firms who mail
 Their bargains from the catalogue
 Or Belleville ginks whose sale

Attracts the people out of towns
 About the size of Stirling, While merchants wait for their accounts —
 And feel their heads a-whirling.

So if for food you seem to crave,
 To put pounds on your bones,
 Why not lay in a good supply
 From Eggleton, or Jones —

Or if there is some dainty thing
 For which your tummy's cracklin'
 Just call Montgomery's Pure Food Store,
 Or give a yell at Macklin.

These awful hot and sunny days
 Make hair a great deal hotter,
 So get a good supply of hair cream from the catalogue
 Or Belleville ginks whose sale

Are handled by one
 At prices that are moderate
 By Rollins and George Bailey.

For bread and buns you needn't want —
 They're made fresh every night —
 By Mumby, Whiteman, McMullen, or —
 Why not try Walter Wright?

And Francis claims that if you'll try
 The Five to a Dollar Store,
 You'll find that it's the very place
 To pay lots less, for more.

Of general stuff of every kind
 There's lots for everyone
 If you'll only call around
 To Fox and Anderson.

At Luer's too you'll find a lot
 Of good things that you'll like;
 At Caldwell's or A. Fleming's
 You'll get lingerie that's right.
 For every man that prides himself

In wearing classy togs,
 There ain't a better place to buy
 Than in at genial "Bob's".

Along the line of "Duds",
 Fred Ward's got lots of suits
 That make guys look heaps better
 From their hats down to their boots.

And if the house you're living in Needs evertoughs to put on,
 Or graniteware or nails and such,
 Just call up Melkjohn.

Or Jim Legrow and Clint McGee
 Have hardware things in dozens,
 At prices low, which can't be beat
 By all your city cousins.

If you're in town on Saturday
 And your stomach's feelin' flat,
 Just drop in at the Paisley House,
 Or get a meal from "Pat".

Besides the other folks that serve
 You victuals for your cash —
 There is a pretty good cafe
 Where you can chaw your hash.

And if you need good beef or pork
 To keep the system runnin'
 Just order up a pound of steak
 From good old Thomas's.

For butter that will help to fill
 That place beneath your vest —
 There ain't no better kind to buy
 Than that of Billy West.

In music lines we've got the best
 Of anything that's lawlul,
 'Cause "Charlie" makes his pupils
 Tickle lively something awful.

If your tastes should turn Ha-wallian
 And your lust guitars might be,
 Maurice Bell will quickly teach
 you

How to play "Farewell to Thee".
 Or if in high soprano voice
 You'd like your kids to toot —
 Just send the darling offsprings
 up

To Peter Piper Clute.
 So if when driving through the town
 Your pistons start to "peck",
 Just drive the waggon to the shop

That's run by Frank Woodbeck,

Or if your steering gear's "gone
 bum"
 And won't turn on an acre,
 Or you need a tire patched right away —
 Go get it done by Baker.

Sometimes you need the gas tank filled —
 You'll run out if you shirk it —
 Just drive the gas-crate up in front
 Of the place that's run by Burkitt.

Earl Bailey too sells gas and oil,
 At repairs he claim's he's best —
 And then you'll get your engine cleaned
 At the shop of "Supertest".

There's lots of times when out of "juice",
 And it's raining down in torrents,
 You'll wish you'd had your tank filled up
 At the station run by Lawrence.

And don't forget, there's one more place
 Where every nickel tells — You'll feel you've got your dollar's worth —
 From McIntosh and Wells.

Now if your system's all upset
 And you need good drugs or portions —
 You'll get the best that money buys
 At our friend, Johnny Morton's.

At Butler's too, they have for sale
 Good drugs and ice cream dishes
 That cool you off on real hot days
 And satisfy your wishes.

And down at "Joe's" they serve you "grub"
 That makes you long for more — Joe's got fresh fruit that's just as good
 As any Belleville store.

Now if a car you haven't got,
 And walk, despite the weather,
 The Reynolds store has got the
 boots
 Made from the best of leather.

And Fred McKee — he'll sell you
 Anything that you can name —
 From straps to keep your trousers
 up
 To an artificial mane.

And your underwear's exposed —
 Just trot your trousers to Fitzald —
 They'll soon be recomposed.

Now just in case a thunderstorm
 Rips shingles from your homes,
 You'd better get insurance from
 The Honorable Thomas Solmes.

Bill Whitty wants to fix you up
 With good insurance bids,
 So when you die the town won't have
 To feed your wife and kids.

And on your car — for fear it busts
 Into somebody's post —
 Put one of Martin's policies —
 He says they yield the most.

When rural folks come into town
 To do their weekly shopping,
 The wisest thing that they can do
 Is let Stapley do their chopping.
 Or while from the sun your horse is tied
 In one of the shady nooks,

If you've a grist you need to grind
 Why not go up to Brooks?

And when the horses' work is done
 And you go pickin' trilliums —
 Just take your "nags" and have them shod
 At Robert Herbert Williams.

Or take them 'round to Lummlis'
 shop —
 Or, if it's any closer,
 Just drive the old gray mare up
 town
 And buy her shoes from Mosler.

And any lady whose fancies roam,
 To wives and better things —
 Can buy at Hadley's what they need,
 Along the line of rings.

And when they're hitched and take a trip
 Before the wedding snarls,
 For trunks and suit-cases and such,
 They ought to call at Searles'.

Before these same guys take the step,
 They should quite plainly see
 They'd look their level-headed best
 In a suit by Jack McGee.

The bride will then want to proceed
 To have her "pitcher taken"
 By Fotoe Graffer Eggleton —
 ...And her so silly-lookin'!

And if the bride finds after all
 The guy ain't such a "honey"
 Bastedo'll get right on his heels
 And collect her alimony.

But if the union turns out right,
 And isn't such a flop,
 They should get their things electrical
 At Stirling Hydro Shop.

I. Caldwell grows great garden stuff,
 And his business would be thrivin'
 If instead of visitin' Belleville Mart
 You'd buy your "greens" from Ivan.

And when you "croak" and have to be Preserved and, "here goes nuthin"
 Just make arrangements 'fore you go
 To get Beacock or Duffin.

At home these things have to be you too
 Home furnishings so grand,
 You'll have your domicile all
 torged,
 And fussed to beat the band.

"Doc" Demorest — now there's a lad
 Who'll adjust your palpitation;
 He'll even set your wooden leg
 'Thout bringing perspiration.

There's Alger and there's Padley —
 Two doctors of great note —
 They'll hawk your achin' tonsils
 out
 And pasteurize your throat.

"Doc" Carleton, when called upon
 Can fix you up, b'gorry,
 And while he's mixing up your salts
 Why "Barney" spills a story.

Then Dr. Walt will grab a drill,
 And pincers, and a hammer —
 And yank your wisdom teeth right
 out
 In no uncertain manner!

When snow-storms are a little cool
 And bacon you must fry,
 That's when it should occur to
 you
 To buy some coal from Spry.

Another thing — if wash, you won't,
 And you're in a little quand'ry
 Just walk your shirt and pants and things
 Up to the Chinese laundry.

Now of those folks who make the cheese —
 (We're more than pleased to ask
 it) —
 Why don't you get your boxes at
 The "Stirling Box and Basket?"

And, by the way, before we close,
 Who can we criticize?
 The folks that spend won't buy in town —
 'Less businessmen do likewise!

No, sir! There ain't no use for us
 To yell "Buy at home stores".
 If merchants here go out of town
 To do their buyin' chores.

It works both ways, and everyone
 Can get their needs at home.
 So when your money you must spend —
 Don't let your dollars roam

To Belleville or Toronto or To buying-places distant —

HIGH - FIDELITY - SOUND

If one is crying for more trade,
 Why not all be consistent!

We've gone this far to try to boost
 The merchants, large and small,
 And we haven't missed the fact that you

Should try to help them all —

But just one thing we'd like to say
 And we don't apologize —
 For saying always buy the most
 From those that advertise.

Good-night all!

Now In Operation

For the past few weeks the plant in the large gravel pit at Fuller, owned and operated by the Consolidated Sand and Gravel Company, with headquarters in Toronto, has been in operation. When visited by a representative of the News-Argus on Tuesday of this week the plant was shut down for temporary repairs but it is expected that it will be in operation for the summer months at least.

The plant, which was first operated in 1923, has a capacity of approximat-ly 54 cars of gravel a day, and at one time employed in the neighborhood of 45 men. But at present owing to less demand for the product and improved methods of handling only about half that number are employed. Mr. Stewart Pender is the present superintendent of the plant and Mr. R. Walker of Madoc, is foreman, and is one of the original employees of the firm at this plant. Mr. Countryman, of Tweed, is employed as clerk.

The pit itself covers several acres of territory and in places has a depth of from 50 to 75 feet, and when viewed from a height resembles a large amphitheatre. The gravel is taken from the pit by a steam shovel and from there carried to the crushers by means of an endless belt driven by a small tractor. At the present time the steam shovel is working about 1100 feet from the crushers and approximately 2200 feet of belting is used in this operation. From the crush-ers, which are three in number, the crushed gravel is carried, also by belting, up to the screening and washing plant, which may be seen in the centre of the above picture. This part of the plant is approximately 80 feet in height and affords an observer a splendid view of the whole plant and the surrounding countryside. All foreign matter is washed from the gravel at this point and the finished product is graded into five large bins equipped with loading spouts on two sides, so that the railway cars may be loaded from either side. A small engine is used for shunting the cars about. The water used for the washing process is procured from a small creek and is supplied by a large pumping station with a capacity of between 900 and 1,000 gallons per minute.

The finished product is used chiefly for construction work of all kinds, some being used for roads, and is sold by the ton. There is no weighing equipment in connection with the plant consequently the weighing is done in Belleville as the gravel is being shipped by rail.

For a number of years the large boarding house which is situated on the property was in operation but owing to the fact that the majority of the labour employed is local it is no longer operated by the company.
